1 in 10 premature births could be prevented by reducing air pollution in California.

Reducing particulate matter would prevent over 3,000 premature births each year, saving $170 million in medical costs and avoiding $980 million in lost lifetime earnings.

Sources of preventable particulate matter:
- Industry
- Transportation
- Wood smoke

For more information visit www.cehtp.org/pretermbirthcosts